

Introducing Amanda Adams, Child Care Worker

Amanda was born and raised in South Carolina and moved to St. Augustine before her freshman year of high school. She graduated with honors from St. Augustine High School and is currently attending Flagler College. Not only has she been working as a nursery staff member here at St. Cyprian's, she is employed as an Extended Day teacher at Memorial Presbyterian Day School. Amanda has always been passionate about education, and when her youngest brother was diagnosed with Down syndrome, she began learning more about special education. Amanda enjoys getting classroom experience while at her practicum assignments throughout St. John's County and is excited to begin her internship in January 2020. She also enjoys working with younger children at St. Cyprian's and Presbyterian Day School. In her free time, she likes to paint, play the piano, and go to the beach. We are indeed fortunate to have Amanda keeping our little ones safe and happy! Stop by and meet her sometime before or after services in the child care center.
